

Make the world your marketplace

With Bank of Scotland, it's easy to trade with buyers and suppliers around the world – whether they're in London or Ljubljana, Birmingham or Buenos Aires. We have over 250 years of experience in helping UK businesses – from sole traders to large corporates – navigate international markets and pursue opportunities overseas.

What's more, we're a financially strong, one-stop shop for your international needs. We can help you send and receive money cross-border, fund your working capital between payments and receipts, and mitigate risk from non-fulfilment of contracts and FX fluctuations between agreement and execution.

To provide you with ease and convenience, our UK, regionally based specialists, can bring together all of the solutions you require in one place – this ensures that foreign exchange and trade risk mitigation, working capital support and international settlement operate as a single, integrated model.

Make cross-border payments with ease

Secure, reliable and smooth cross-border payments keep business moving. Bank of Scotland has a strong network of correspondent banking partners around the world to facilitate predictable and transparent international payments. We can move money to over 200 destinations around the world, in 60 currencies. Whether you need to pay in sterling, Swiss franc, Swedish krona or Singaporean dollar, we can help.

Cost	We offer clear and transparent pricing, so that you have cost certainty and can protect your margins
Ease	Quickly execute international payments via our online channels, with integrated currency conversion, providing you with a fast and simple way of managing your international obligations in a large and growing range of currencies
Speed and predictability	Faster, more seamless payments with extended cut-off times, straight-through processing and enhanced validation - supporting time-sensitive supply chains
Transparency	Enhanced visibility achieved via online payments tracking, providing your suppliers with confidence of payment delivery
Innovation	We are investing significantly in our international services, while also working closely with fintechs to increase speed, improve reach and enhance the user experience.

More widely, we play a key role in industry-wide initiatives, working with other financial institutions and central banks. For example, we are participating in the pan-industry initiative Project Agorá, which is exploring how tokenisation and programmable money could make international payments faster, more transparent, and more efficient.

Pay in local currencies

While it might seem quicker and easier to pay international payments in sterling, in many cases, it could be more beneficial to pay in your supplier's or customer's local currency. Bank of Scotland's FX solutions can help to ensure that using multiple currencies is straightforward, making it easy to settle international invoices and move money around the world.

Paying in the local currency enables you to gain cost certainty and could help to increase payment speed and reduce costs, avoiding hidden fees.

We've invested to enable you to take advantage of these benefits, by increasing our currency range to over 60 currencies for outbound payments. Our currency range is growing even further over the coming months to become one of the largest in the market.

More broadly, we can also help you actively manage your FX risk and protect your margins. You can use our currency accounts to purchase FX and hold in 30 currencies and take advantage of a suite of derivatives to hedge your risk. This is backed up by digital tools, like Connected, providing you with the data needed to make informed decisions, while our regionally based FX specialists help you keep pace with market moves, unpack your exposures and help you stay on top of FX risk as your business evolves.
